

Christopher Noe

*General Partner
Dublin Capital Partners*

Christopher Noe is general partner of Dublin Capital Partners, a Lenfest Enterprise fund which invests in advertising, digital media and technology enabled service businesses. He is the former president of Lenfest Media Group where he had profit and loss responsibility for CAM Systems and Starnet, both of which provided advertising related software and services to the cable industry and were successfully sold to OpenTV (NASDAQ:OPTV).

Prior to Lenfest Media Group, he was a managing director with Katalyst LLC, a venture fund and private equity services firm focused on the cable, media and IT industries. He previously held sales, business development and consulting positions with IBM, CSC Consulting and KPMG Peat Marwick.

He attained a bachelor of science degree in accounting from the University of Connecticut and earned his certification as a public accountant in the state of Connecticut. He currently is managing director of Broadway Systems and sits on the Board of Directors for XOS Digital and Iron Solutions.

###